Relationships and Sex Education Policy

Reviewed and approved by: FGB

Policy Reviewed: October 2021

Future Review: October 2022

1. Aims

The aims of relationships and sex education (RSE) at our school are to:

- Provide a safe framework in which sensitive discussions can take place
- Prepare pupils for puberty, and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene
- Help pupils develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- Create a positive culture around issues of sexuality and relationships
- Teach pupils the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies

2. Statutory requirements

As a maintained primary school we must provide relationships education to all pupils as per section 34 of the Children and Social work act 2017. However, we are not required to provide sex education but we do need to teach the elements of sex education contained in the science curriculum.

In teaching RSE, we must have regard to guidance issued by the secretary of state as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

At Kirtlington CE Primary we teach RSE as set out in this policy.

3. Policy development

This policy has been developed in consultation with staff, pupils and parents. The consultation and policy development process involved the following steps:

1. Review – The school's RSE team researched and shared all relevant information including relevant national and local guidance
2. Staff consultation – all school staff were given the opportunity to look at the policy and make recommendations
3. Parent/stakeholder consultation – parents and any interested parties were invited to give their feedback about the school's policy and curriculum map
4. Pupil consultation – we investigated what exactly pupils want from their RSE through carrying out pupil voice interviews
5. Ratification – once amendments were made, the policy was shared with governors and ratified

4. Definition

What is Relationships Education?

Relationship Education in primary schools is teaching the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships, with particular reference to friendships, family relationships, and relationships with other children and with adults. This starts with pupils being taught about what a relationship is, what friendship is, what family means and who the people are who can support them. From the beginning of primary school, building on early education, pupils should be taught how to take turns, how to treat each other with kindness, consideration and respect, the importance of honesty and truthfulness, permission seeking and giving, and the concept of personal privacy.

See Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (SRE) and Health Education Guidance DFE 2020

What is Relationships and Sex Education (RSE)?

The Relationships Education, RSE, and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 have made Relationships Education compulsory in all primary schools. Sex education is not compulsory in primary schools. A parent may wish to withdraw their child from sex education beyond the national curriculum for science.

RSE is about the emotional, social and cultural development of pupils, and involves learning about relationships, sexual health, sexuality, healthy lifestyles, diversity and personal identity.

In Year 6, before moving to secondary school, pupils will have a sex education programme tailored to the age and the physical and emotional maturity of the pupils. It will ensure that both boys and girls are prepared for the changes that adolescence brings and – drawing on knowledge of the human life cycle set out in the national curriculum for science - how a baby is conceived and born. The national curriculum for science also includes subject content in related areas, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals. See Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (SRE) and Health Education Guidance DFE 2020

5. Curriculum

Our RSE curriculum is set out as per Appendix 1 but we may need to adapt it as and when necessary.

We use the PSHE Association scheme of work to deliver the RSE curriculum. We have developed the curriculum in consultation with parents, pupils and staff, taking into account the age, needs and feelings of pupils. If pupils ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an appropriate manner so they are fully informed and don't seek answers online.

Primary sex education will focus on:

- Preparing boys and girls for the changes that adolescence brings
- How a baby is conceived and born
- For more information about our curriculum, see our curriculum map in Appendix 1.

6. Delivery of RSE

RSE is taught within the personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education curriculum. Biological aspects of RSE are taught within the science curriculum. Pupils also receive stand-alone sex education sessions supported by the school Health team.

Relationships education focuses on teaching the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships including:

- Health and happy friendships
- Similarities and differences
- Caring and responsibilities
- Families and committed relationships
- Healthy bodies and minds
- Coping with change
- For more information about our RSE curriculum, see Appendix 1.

All areas of learning are taught within the context of family life taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances (families can include single parent families, LGBT parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them (for example: looked after children or young carers).

All teaching and materials will have regard to the age and religious backgrounds of all pupils and teaching and resources will be differentiated to address the needs of SEN or vulnerable pupils to ensure they have full access to RSE curriculum.

7. Roles and responsibilities

7.1 The governing board

The governing board will approve the RSE policy and hold the Headteacher to account for its implementation.

7.2 The Headteacher

The Headteacher is responsible for ensuring that RSE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory components of RSE (see section 8).

7.3 Teachers

Teachers are responsible for:

- Delivering RSE in a sensitive way
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSE
- Monitoring progress
- Responding to the needs of individual pupils
- Responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory components of RSE

Teachers do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSE. Those who have concerns about teaching RSE are encouraged to discuss this with the Headteacher.

7.4 Pupils

Pupils are expected to engage fully in RSE and, when discussing issues related to RSE, treat others with respect and sensitivity.

8. Parents' right to withdraw

Parents do not have the right to withdraw their children from relationships education. Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the non-statutory components of sex education within RSE. Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing using the form found in Appendix 3 of this policy and addressed to the Headteacher. Alternative work will be given to pupils who are withdrawn from sex education.

9. Training

Staff are trained on the delivery of RSE as necessary and as part of the school's professional development cycle. The Headteacher will also invite visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses or NSPCC to provide support and training to staff teaching RSE.

10. 10. Monitoring arrangements

The delivery of RSE is monitored by the RSE team through:

- planning scrutinies
- learning walks
- pupil surveys

Pupils' development in RSE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.
